

ABSTRACT

The length of the data being received from a sending network is determined, a relay threshold is determined, and relay of the data to a receiving network is initiated when a received portion of the data exceeds the relay threshold.

20152171.doc

[illegible]